TURKS MAY STRIKE BEFORE BRITAIN CAN CONCENTRATE

KEMALISTS REPORTED ON VERGE OF ATTACKING DARDANELLES.

ENGLAND IS FIRM

Assault Expected Despite Warning of French to Nationalist Army.

(By Associated Press.)—Information that Mustafa Kemal Pasha is preparing to launch an attack for the possession of the Dardanelles in spite of the exhortations of General Dardanelles, French high commissioner, is causing undisturbed anxiety in allied military circles.

It is not improbable that an attack will be made before the end of the present week, it is said, the Turks are taking advantage of the fact that the British have not yet concentrated all their forces.

The British, however, are declared to be determined to hold the straits at all cost, regardless of how formidable the Kemalists forces may be, and of whether France and Italy participate in the defense.

French War Turkeys.—It is understood here that the French cabinet warned the Ankara government of the inadvisability of an assault on the neutral zone, but the nationalists are believed to have replied that the proposed attack is in the nature of a defensive move, and that the movement in view of Great Britain's military preparations in support of her alleged policy of depriving Turkey of Thrace.

The British position would be greatly augmented if the military and naval units promised from England and the dominions were at hand.

BRITISH FLEET UNITS ON WAY TO STRAITS

Malta.—Various units of the British Atlantic fleet are on their way to join the naval forces in the Dardanelles, but the authorities here are reluctant as to details. It is learned, however, that a second destroyer fleet, composed of the most modern vessels has been ordered from England and that the high commanders are due here shortly on their way to Constantinople.

MANY DOUT ATTACK WILL BE MADE BY TURKS

London.—Renewed reports received here that Mustafa Kemal Pasha's cavalry has invaded the neutral zone around the straits of Dardanelles and that he is moving large forces in this direction, evidently, rest upon unconfirmed rumors and are disbelieved in well informed quarters. Turkish cavalry patrols admittedly have reached Bursa, but the British are entrenched, but none of these points is within the boundary of the zones.

Superintendent Madden of the claims department of the California Compensation Insurance fund, has sent checks to 10 of the stricken families. He announced the families would receive checks monthly ranging from $60 to $88, for a period of 240 weeks.

Thirty-eight bodies still remained early Wednesday on the 4,350 foot level of the Argonaut. Identification is possible only by means of scars, teeth and other personal characteristics.

Want Ads Find Jobs

There are usually quite a number of people looking for work. Some have more success in finding it than others. The reason for this is likely to be found in the method employed. For instance, the following classified ad taken from the Gazette files of Sept. 13 and 14, promptly landed a job for the person who inserted it.

COUNTY BOARD REFUSAL TO ADMIT CLAIMS ANTICIPATED.

CONTINUE PROBE

Failure to Apprehend 11 of 58 Indicted Men Also Investigated.

(By Associated Press.)—Marion, Ill.—The Williamson county board of supervisors Wednesday was expected to take up consideration of bills seeking approximately $275,000 for alleged damages committed in connection with the riots at the strip mine of the Southern Illinois Coal company, near here, last June, in which more than a score of persons were killed.

Consideration of the damage bills was expected to be held simultaneously with the continuation of the investigation into the disturbances by the special grand jury which has been conducting an inquiry for several weeks.

The board of supervisors is expected to refuse the claims and the next step for those seeking damages, according to attorneys, will be to file suit in county court for amounts.

Investigation of the failure to apprehend 11 of the 58 men indicted in connection with the mine killings, was brought to the attention of the grand jury by the prosecutors. One of the men, Robert M. Ziegler, was reported to have been seen on the streets of Ziegler, boasting of his freedom. It was said that statements have been made to arrest him.

Adopt Platform for La Follette

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)—Madison.—After adopting a platform practically identical with that which the La Follette ticket used for the election in 1920, the Wisconsin state convention of a state committee made up entirely of La Follette followers, the platform convention adjourned. The entire machinery of the republican party in Wisconsin, down to the last detail, is in the hands of the La Follette family.

Socialists adopted a platform demanding repeal of the Severe law and selected Frank Weber, veteran of labor organizations, as state chairman.

Democrats again selected John P. Hume as head of the committee.

Prohibitionists elected W. C. Dean.

LAKOTAS TO HAVE BIG CLUB-HOUSE ON S. JACKSON ST.

CLUB BUYS BEAUTIFUL RESIDENCE OF DR. GEORGE FIFE.

TO MOVE OCT. 1st

New Home Ideal for Club House—Take Possession in Two Weeks.

Branching out to become an even more prominent and permanent organization than it has been for the past 12 years, the Lakota club, lending young men a new direction of Janesville, has purchased the beautiful brick residence of Dr. George W. Fife, 61 South Jackson street, for a clubhouse. The club will take possession, Oct. 1st.

"It is long step forward and it is going to mean big things for the Lakota club," said President Reno Koch in making announcement of the purchase, Wednesday.

Arrangements are now being made to move the club furniture and equipment to the new home from the present quarters on the second floor of the Curie building, West Milwaukee and South Franklin street. The club has held these rooms the past six years.

The building is 35 by 40 feet, with 10 rooms and two baths, located on a lot 66 feet deep and having a 40 foot frontage on South Jackson street. It is equipped with a hot water heating plant and has two open fireplaces with possibilities of a third. Off the second story on the north side is a large sleeping porch, which in the past has been used as a storage room. The house is a double garage, built of red brick, the same as used in the home.

It is strictly modern, having been built by Dr. Fife as an office and home in 1908, many improvements having been made in the house. The structure was erected by W. R. Hayes, the late Con. J. Hayes and the late James Shearer.

The first floor has a kitchen, good-sized reception hall and three other large rooms.

The second floor contains four large bedrooms, a bath and a smaller space suitable for a storage room. It is believed that the second floor may be remodeled into an assembly room by removing a few partitions.

Dr. Fife will continue to occupy the basement for his offices, at least for the next three or four months, renting it from the club. The club will have full possession of the other two floors Oct. 1st.

The committee which secured the new quarters was composed of George Sennett, chairman; Roger G. Cunningham, William Brockhaus, William E. Langdon, George Sheer, Dr. Gerald K. Woolf, Richard Taylor and Dan Sullivan. The first four named signed the contract for the purchase. A special club meeting will be held prior to this week to approve the transaction.

Dr. Fife has moved into his new home on Court street.

FAST TO BECOME SLANDER CAUSES DEATH OF GIRLS

Paris.—"Slain by fashion" is the verdict of the Paris-Telegram, following the death of two girls who starved themselves in order to achieve modish slenderness.

Tight lacing caused cancer which weakened their constitutions, rendering them unable to fight off illness. The two victims died within 24 hours of each other.

"Hundreds of young girls are languishing near death as a result of attempts to make their figures conform to stylish fashions in fashion magazines," asserted Professor Henri Legendre, famous psycho-therapist. "Present fashions are responsible for dozens of deaths annually."

FIND TRYST PLACE OF SLAIN COUPLE?

Unoccupied House Near Murder Scene Yields Possible Clues.

(By Associated Press.)—New Brunswick, N. J.—Many evidences of recent use were found in the old, unoccupied house on the hill-top overlooking the orchard where last Sunday the bodies of the Rev. Edward W. Hall, rector of the church of St. John the Evangelist, and his wife, Mrs. Ellen Hall, were discovered.

Investigators, working on a theory for the slain couple as a trysting place, found September magazines in the library, which was well stocked with books. At the head of a luxurious couch were a pair of slippers in which lay two cigarette butts. The telephone was still connected, although the real estate agent, who bought the place last July, had long ago ordered the line disconnected.

On a pad near the telephone was the name "Willie Stevens"—the eccentric brother in law of the slain minister.

Nowhere else was found any blood stains or disarray to indicate a struggle had occurred in the old house.

News for Farmers

Farm Bureau Official Information

Grub Our Sprouts Of Barberry Bush In Many Counties

Madison — Adams, Buffalo and Jackson last week were added to the list of counties in which the farm to farm barberry survey has been completed, according to a report just submitted to Washington by W. A. Walker, state leader of the federal eradication forces. The government is fighting the barberry bush as a means of checking black stem rust which destroyed more than 2 million bushels of grain in Wisconsin in 1921.

Work was done in fifteen counties in August, Mr. Walker reported, with the results that 527 barberries were found and 457 removed. Sprouts which developed from roots incompletely eradicated in previous years were found in every county, 133 being grubbed out last month.

Watching for sprouts will be an important part of the eradication work from now on, Mr. Walker believes. In Wisconsin 3,350,329 original bushes have been found and 2,788,078 removed since the start of the campaign in 1915. It is estimated that sprouts may appear in spots where bushes have been dug and thus renew the menace of black stem rust.

Government men will be needed to continue the farm to farm survey in counties not yet visited, the state leader says, and accordingly should be spared for reserve work. Individual farmers should watch for sprouts, it is pointed out, and grub them up as soon as they appear.

Rock Must Hurry Or Lose Out in Race for Tests

On Sept. 1, Wisconsin still maintains its lead in the nation-wide war on bovine tuberculosis. In Wisconsin, 10 counties have been added to the list of counties having all its cattle tested for tuberculosis. In all, Wisconsin now has seven counties with tuberculosis tested cattle, four in which work is progressing, two others that have petitioned the Department of Agriculture for county-wide tests, and a dozen or more which are securing signatures for such tests.

Wisconsin not only leads the nation in the greatest number of tested areas, but also in the number of acres tested. Under the federal plan 502 herds containing 11,476 cattle; 418 animals reacted to the tuberculin test. 42 herds were tested for tuberculosis by the local accredited veterinarians containing 1,155 cattle. At the end of this month there were 5,500 herds containing 134,141 cattle under supervision. 3,011 herds containing 55,593 cattle had passed the first negative test toward accreditation and there were 1,820 herds containing 41,151 cattle certified to be fully accredited.

Everything is so new, yet there is an air of quality about it that puts one at ease regarding the authenticity and popularity of these styles for the new season.

Headquarters for Children's Fashions

Brown as a Coat Tone is Liked By the Little Girls

And despite their extreme youth that they usually know what they like in fabrics too, this year the majority prefer coats of double face polo and mothers who are careful that small daughter does not set her heart on something impractical, heartily approve the choice.

Priced at $4.95 to $45.00

Attractive Frocks for the Little Folks

Nothing can quite compare with the joy a new dress gives the average child. Why not let your little girl revel in a wool crepe or serge dress, gay with appliqued flowers and hand embroidery? She will rejoice over its prettiness and you will congratulate yourself over and over for having found so durable, so charming and moderately priced a garment.

Priced at $4.95 to $12.50

Autumn Coats and Wraps Have a Luxurious Air

To be sure there are many utility coats, which for practical purposes, have avoided extensive trimmings and adornment. But in the fashionable wraps there is a luxury of large draped collars; the withery of the rich beautiful fur in collars, cuffs and pockets. If one were to mention the predominating color it would be brown, yet it comes in so many variations such fabrics Normaglow, Mariano, Una Ormadale, Rubader and Velverette indicate that even the materials have a fashion interest wrapped up in their names.

Beautiful New Fall Dresses

Perhaps its their "drapiness" that make the frocks so beautiful. Then again it may be the distinctive touch of embroidery and beading in colors or it is the charm of the fine silk weaves, the crepe Satins, Crepe de Chine, Canton Crepe and Satins in which they are developed. Whatever it is, their beauty can not be denied and the colors are just what women of fashion would specify, Navy, Brown, Black.

Priced From $18.75 to $57.50

A Knockabout Suit

Almost a necessity these days, whether it is for travel or shopping at home, or in business, the knockabout will serve equally well. There is a choice of many interesting tweeds of patch or slash pockets of long notched lapels.

Priced From $22.50 to $48.00

The Tailored Suit

Nothing so marks the well tailored woman as a well made, well fitting tailored suit. The Wooltex tailormades featured by us, are tailored with the same perfection as the finest made to order suits. The long shoulders, the excellent lines will be a joy to the wearer. This season brings forth the longer coat. Fur and notched lapels are the choice. ## It Has Set A New Standard

6 Cylinder—50 Horsepower—$995

The Jewett weighs more than 2800 pounds ready for the road. That at once proves that it cannot be compared with any "light" six on the market.

It is equipped with a fifty horsepower motor of 3 1/4 inch bore and 5 inch stroke. To find a motor of equal power you must look to cars that sell for a much higher price.

It is important to remember these facts. For they prove that the Jewett is built with excess strength in every detail of its frame, transmission, clutch, drive shaft and special Timken axles.

And they prove most conclusively that the new reduced price of $995 f. o. b. Detroit is the standard of value by which all five passenger sixes must be judged.

President Harding's Veto of the Soldier Bonus Bill

Washington, D. C.—The full text of the president's veto message to the house of representatives follows:—
“Whereas it is urged without approval of the senate, a bill to provide adjusted compensation for the veterans of the world war and for other purposes;
“With the avowed purpose of the bill to give expression of a nation's gratitude to those who served in its defense in the world war, I am in accord, but to its provisions I do not subscribe. The United States has never ceased to be grateful—it cannot and never will cease giving expression to that gratitude.
“No Revenue Provided
“In legislating for what is called adjusted compensation Congress has failed, first of all, to provide the revenue from which the bestowal is to be paid. Moreover, it establishes the very dangerous precedent of creating a treasury obligation to pay without a tax to defray it. The bill is estimated to cost four and five billions upon the American people, not to discharge an obligation which the government always must pay but to bestow a bonus which the soldiers themselves while serving in the world war did not expect.
“It is not to be denied that the nation has certain very binding obligations to those of the defenders who made the sacrifices in the world war and who left the armies injured, disabled or diseased, so that they could not resume their places in the normal activities of life. These obligations are being gladly and conscientiously met. There are here and there inefficiencies and injustices and some distressing instances of neglect, but they are all unintentional and every energy is being directed to their earliest possible correction.
“In meeting this obligation there is no complaint about the heavy cost. In the current fiscal year we are expending $10,000,000 on hospitalization and care of sick and wounded, on compensation and vocational training for the disabled, and for insurance. The figures do not include the more than $35,000,000 in process of expenditure on hospital construction.
“The estimate for the year to follow amounts to approximately $470,000,000, and the figures may need to be made larger. Though the peak in hospitalization may have elapsed, there is a growing danger in full of our obligations to the disabled, disabled or dependent who have a right to the government's care, with insurance. Liability added, will probably reach a total sum in excess of $25,000,000.
“More than 95,000 veterans are now enrolled in some of the 445 different courses in vocational training. Fifty-four thousand of them are in schools or colleges, nearly 35,000 in industrial establishments, and a few more than 6,000 are being trained in schools operated by the veterans' bureau.
“Vocational Training
“Approximately 10,000 have completed their courses and have employment in all cases, where they desire it; and $3,000 have deferred for the present time their acceptance of employment. The number eligible under the law may reach close to 400,000, and facilities will continue to be afforded, unimpaired of the necessary cost, until every obligation is fulfilled.

“Two hundred and seventy-six thousand patients have been hospitalized, more than a quarter of a million discharged, and 22,000 patients are in our hospitals today.
“Four hundred and sixteen thousand awards of compensation have been made on account of death or disability, and $180,000,000 have been paid to disabled men or their dependent relatives. One hundred and seventy-five thousand disabled ex-service men are now receiving compensation along with medical or hospital care where needed, and a quarter of a million checks go out monthly in distributing the eight million dollars payment on indisputable obligations.
“Congressional Generalities
“I reject the flimsy and unbusinesslike manner in which Congress has gone generously and freely it has opened the treasury doors to discharge the obligations of the nation to those whom it indisputably owes compensation and care.
“Though undying gratitude is the mood of every one who served, it is not to be said that a material bestowal is an obligation to those who entered from the great conflict not only physically but physically, mentally and spiritually richer for the great experience. If an obligation were to be admitted it would be to charge the adjusted compensation bill with industry and enterprise wholly unbecoming our republic. Such a bestowal, to be worthwhile, must be generous and without apology.
“Clearly the bill returned herewith takes cognizance of the inability of the government wisely to bestow any service in substance. We do not have the tax we do not believe in a tax levy to meet the situation, but there is in our hands a credit for half a century. This is not a commendation, but rather a pledge by Congress, while the executive branch of the government is left to provide for payments falling due in ever increasing amounts.
“When the bill was under consideration in the house I expressed the conviction that any grant of bonus ought to provide the means of payment, and I was unable to suggest any other than that of a general sales tax. Such a plan was unacceptable to Congress and the bill has been enacted without even a suggested means of meeting the cost. Indeed, the cost is not definitely known, either for the immediate future or in the ultimate settlement. The treasury estimates, placed on what seems the most likely exercise of the options, figures the direct cost at approximately $145,000,000 for 1923, $225,000,000 for 1924, $124,000,000 for 1925, $332,000,000 for 1926, making a total of $775,000,000 for the first four years of its operation and a total cost in excess of $1,000,000,000.
“No estimate of the large indirect cost ever had been made. The certificate plan sets up no reserve against the ultimate liability. The plan avoids any considerable direct outlay by the government during the earlier years of the bill's proposed operations, but the loans on the certificates would be lent on the credit of the nation.
“This is borrowing on the national credit, and it is true, though the loans were made by direct government borrowing and involve a dangerous abuse of public credit. Moreover, the certificate plan of payment in little loans thus certified liability of the government to pay and invites a practice or sacrificial barrier which I cannot sanction.
“The Nation's Credit
“It is worth remembering that the public debt is mounted on the public better in the defensibility of public expenditure as well as the government's ability to pay. Loans come from every rank in life and our heavy tax burden is paid, directly or indirectly, every element in our citizenship. To add one-sixth of the total sum of our public debt for a distribution among less than five millions out of one hundred and ten millions, which is inspired by a selfish sentiment or public expediency, would undermine the confidence of which our credit is built and establish the precedent of distributing public funds whenever the proposal and the numbers attached make it seem politically appealing to do so.
“Great Burden of Debt
“Congress clearly appraised the danger of borrowing directly to finance a bestowal which it without obligation and manifestly recognized the financial problems with which the nation is confronted. Our maturing promises to pay within the current fiscal year amount approximately to $4,000,000,000, more, which we have to be refunded. Within the next six years more than $10,000,000,000 of debt will mature and will have to be financed. The outstanding and maturing obligations are difficult enough to meet without the complication of added borrowings, every one of which threatens higher interest and delays the adjustment to stable government financing and the diminution of federal taxes to defensible cost of government.

all interest collections on foreign indebtedness which the government is likely to receive. To add to our pledges to pay except as necessity compels must seem no less than governmental folly. Inevitably it means increased taxation, which Congress was unwilling to levy for the purpose of this bill, and will turn us from the course toward economy so essential to promote the activities which contribute to common welfare.
“It is to be remembered that the United States played no self-seeking part in the world war and pursued an unselfish policy after the cause was won. We demanded no reparation for the cost involved, no payments out of which obligations to our soldiers could be met. I have not magnified the willing outlay in behalf of those to whom a sacred obligation is essential to remember that a more than four billion dollar pledge to the able bodied ex-service men now will not diminish the later obligations which will have to be met when the younger veterans of today shall contribute to the rolls of the aged, indigent and dependent. It is as inevitable as that the years will pass that pension provision for world war veterans will be made, as it has been made for those who served in previous wars. It will cost more billions than I venture to suggest. There will be justification when the need is apparent, and a national financial policy today is necessary to make the nation ready for the expenditure which is certain to be required in the coming years. The contemplation of such a policy is in accord with the established practice of the nation and puts the service men of the world war on the same plane as the millions of men who fought the previous battles of the republic.

“I confess a regret that I must sound a note of disappointment to the many ex-service men who have the impression that it is as simple a matter for the government to bestow billions in aid as it is to expend billions in war. I regret to stand between them and the pitifully small compensation proposed. I dislike to be out of accord with the majority of Congress which has voted the bestowal. The simple truth is that this bill proposes a government obligation of more than four billions without a provision of funds for the extraordinary expenditure which the executive branch of the government must finance in the face of difficult financial problems and the complete defeat of our commitment to effect economies.
“I would rather appeal therefore to the candid reflections of Congress and the country and to the ex-service men in particular as to the course better suited to further the welfare of our country. These ex-soldiers who served so gallantly in war, and who are to be so conspicuous in the progress of the republic in the half century before us, must know that nations can only survive where taxation is restrained from the limits of oppression, where the public treasury is locked against class legislation, but ever open to public necessity, prepared to meet all essential obligations. Such a policy makes a better country for which to fight or to have fought and assures a surer abiding place in which we live and attain.”

all interest collections on foreign indebtedness which the government is likely to receive. To add to our pledges to pay except as necessity compels must seem no less than governmental folly. Inevitably it means increased taxation, which Congress was unwilling to levy for the purpose of this bill, and will turn us from the course toward economy so essential to promote the activities which contribute to common welfare.
“It is to be remembered that the United States played no self-seeking part in the world war and pursued an unselfish policy after the cause was won. We demanded no reparation for the cost involved, no payments out of which obligations to our soldiers could be met. I have not magnified the willing outlay in behalf of those to whom a sacred obligation is essential to remember that a more than four billion dollar pledge to the able bodied ex-service men now will not diminish the later obligations which will have to be met when the younger veterans of today shall contribute to the rolls of the aged, indigent and dependent. It is as inevitable as that the years will pass that pension provision for world war veterans will be made, as it has been made for those who served in previous wars. It will cost more billions than I venture to suggest. There will be justification when the need is apparent, and a national financial policy today is necessary to make the nation ready for the expenditure which is certain to be required in the coming years. The contemplation of such a policy is in accord with the established practice of the nation and puts the service men of the world war on the same plane as the millions of men who fought the previous battles of the republic.

“I confess a regret that I must sound a note of disappointment to the many ex-service men who have the impression that it is as simple a matter for the government to bestow billions in aid as it is to expend billions in war. I regret to stand between them and the pitifully small compensation proposed. I dislike to be out of accord with the majority of Congress which has voted the bestowal. The simple truth is that this bill proposes a government obligation of more than four billions without a provision of funds for the extraordinary expenditure which the executive branch of the government must finance in the face of difficult financial problems and the complete defeat of our commitment to effect economies.
“I would rather appeal therefore to the candid reflections of Congress and the country and to the ex-service men in particular as to the course better suited to further the welfare of our country. These ex-soldiers who served so gallantly in war, and who are to be so conspicuous in the progress of the republic in the half century before us, must know that

More Activity Expected at the Chamber of Commerce by the contest committee. Following the tabulation it was announced that 1,000 votes will be awarded free to the candidate making the biggest gain from the 1,000 count to the second one, Thursday night. This is expected to heighten competition and result in much heavier voting. To be included in the second count, ballots must be in any of the 14 lot boxes by 5:30 Thursday afternoon, and in those at the banks before 2:30 p. m.

Adding interest to the contest is the novel display in the window of the Conrad jewelry store where a miniature harvest queen is shown sitting on a beautiful throne, holding the $175 diamond ring to be awarded the candidate having the most votes at the close of the contest, 6 p. m., Saturday. $100 Victrola with a dozen records goes to the winner of second place while the third prize is a $75 cedar chest. The Apollo theater has donated a one cent pass as fourth prize.

TWO BOYS' BANDS ASSURED FOR CITY

With the meeting of applicants for the Junior high school band Tuesday night, even larger than that held the preceding evening for the Senior band, the two organizations are now assured, and their success is undoubted. Bower City band members have promised cooperation.

First practice will probably be held within 10 days, Prin. W. W. Brown says. It will take this length of time for the Eklon Band Instrument company, of Elk Horn, to fill the order for more than $3,300 of instruments for the students. Added to this will be the $300 that the board of education will spend for bass instruments. While the instrumentation for the Junior band is fairly well divided, it is not so much so as the Senior band, and the following additions are almost necessary: Two euphoniums, two baritone, two trombones, several clarinets, one alto saxophone, one tenor saxophone and one baritone saxophone. Additions have already been recommended for the Senior band, so that they will be more than 40 in that organization. The Junior band will be almost as large.

Interest in the parents was evident Tuesday night, when a large number attended. Out of the 75 students present, 14 signed for new instruments, and that many signed for joining the band, playing instruments they already have.

Practice for the band will be held during school time, says Prin. Brown. It is probable that some credit, equal to glee club credit, will be given for the work. L. E. Jackson, the new agriculture instructor at the high school, will manage the band, and any who wish to join now are asked to communicate with him. A competent instructor from the Eklon company will work with the two bands for three months, when playing organizations are promised by that company, which is on record as never having a failure in this branch of its business.

A Serial Story of the Colorado Mines

By Courtney Ryley Cooper.

Copyright by Little, Brown & Co.

Thornton Fairchild died, leaving the "Blue Poppy" mine at Oshadi, Colorado, to his son, Robert. About this time there is a mystery which darkens the life of the father. He had fled from Oshadi, leaving the mine. Robert goes to Colorado and is warmly welcomed by Squint Rodaine, who owns the Silver Queen. Robert falls in love with Anna, Richmond, daughter of Judge Richmond, who is in the power of Squint Rodaine. Anna is engaged to marry Rodaine's son. Robert is joined by Harry Harkins, partner of Thornton Fairchild, and half owner of the Blue Poppy. The partners open the mine and in the chamber and the body of "Sis" Larsen with skull smashed. Robert thinks his father murdered. Harkins is also under suspicion. Following a hold-up of a dance hall, Harkins is arrested, charged with the crime. He is released on bail of $5,000, the deed to the Blue Poppy being put up as security. Just as a vein of the Silver Queen disappears and Fairchild with a week to redeem the mine is desperate in an isolated house in the woods near the mine. She is not crazy, but is the chief witness against him. He makes a deal with a smelting company to take his ore and advance him the money in order that Squint Rodaine will not get the Blue Poppy after the Harkins bond is forfeited. Fairchild spends his last dollar trying to get out the ore.

An hour more, then Fairchild suddenly slunk into the shadows of a doorway. Squint had snapped out the light and was looking the other way. Fairchild slipped through the doorway and took up the trail. It was not a hard one to follow. Squint Rodaine passed the street leading to his house without even looking up. Two blocks more, and they reached the city limits.

A mile, and they were in the open country, crossing and recrossing the ice-dotted Clear creek. A furlong more, then Squint Rodaine turned up the lane which led to a great, shabby, old, white building that, in the rosy days of the mining game, had been a roadhouse, but which now, barely furnished in a few of its rooms, inhabited by a few rats and a few cats, and a few men, formed the uncomfortable abode of Crazy Laura.

And Fairchild followed. It could mean only one thing when Rodaine sought the white-haired woman, mumbled to her, and then he called his wife. It could mean but one outcome, and that of disaster for some one. Mother Howard had said that Crazy Laura would kill. Rodaine was seeking her. Fairchild knew to follow, and to hear—if such a thing were within the range of human possibility—the evil drippings of his crooked life. He crossed to the side of the road where ran the inevitable gully and, taking advantage of the shelter, hurried forward, smiling grimly in the darkness at the memory of the fact that things were now reversed: that he was following Squint Rodaine as Rodaine once had followed him. Squint Rodaine moved closer—closer; the scar-faced man came and approached the house, not knowing that his pursuer was less than fifty yards away. A minute of cautious waiting—then—is one of the brightest jewels which adorns our modern, economic system. But too often this independence is gained at the cost of health, and the wage-earning woman struggles through her duties, a prey to nervousness, backache and despondency. Does not her independence then become more of a burden than a joy? Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped many such women to regain their zest in life, and will help many more. ## Is Backache Making You Miserable?

Are you dull, tired and achy—bothered with a bad back? Do you lack ambition; suffer headaches and dizziness—feel "all worn out"? Likely your kidneys are to blame. Lame backs, aching, backache, pains, backache and annoying urinary disorders are all symptoms of weakened kidneys. Don't wait for more serious trouble. Get back your health and keep it! Use Doan's Kidney Pills. Home folks tell their merit. Ask your neighbor: "Here's a Janesville case: J. W. McCue, stationary engineer, 523 Main street, says: 'My back had been aching for three weeks and my kidneys acted too frequently. I had a tired, nervous feeling, so I decided to try Doan's Kidney Pills on the strength of a friend who had been benefited by them. I got a couple boxes at Sherer's Drug Store and when I had finished taking them I was as well as ever.'" in which Fairchild did not move. Finally a light showed in an upstairs room of the house, and Fairchild, making his own footprints in the snow, went to the porch. Swiftly, silently, protected by the pad of snow on the soles of his shoes, he made the doorway and softly tried the lock. It gave beneath his pressure, and he slipped within the dark hall, way dusty and dark. Now Fairchild could hear voices, and in a moment more they became louder, as a door opened.

"It doesn't make any difference! I ain't going to stand for it! Why didn't you wait until they were both there?"

"I thought they were. Ready?" The woman's voice was whining, pleading. "Ain't you going to kiss me?"

"No, I ain't going to kiss you. You went and made a mess of things. You kissed me the night our boy was born. Remember that, Ready? Don't you remember how you kissed me then?"

"That was a long time ago, and you were a different woman then. You'd do what I'd tell you."

"But I do now, Ready. Honest. I'll do anything you tell me. Why if you'll just be good to me. Why don't you hold me in your arms any more?"

A scuffling sound came from above. Fairchild knew that she had made an effort to clasp him to her, and that he had thrust her away. The voices came closer.

"You know what you got us into, don't you? They made a strike these today—same value in the Silver Queen. If it hadn't been for you—"

"But they got out somehow—they always get out." The voice was high and weird now. "They're immortal. That's what they are—they're immortal. They have the gift—they can get out—"

"Bosh. Course they get out when you wait until after they're gone. Why, one of 'em was down town at the 'bros', so I understand, when you went in there."

"But the other—he's immortal. He got out—"

"You're crazy!" She suddenly shrieked at the words. "That's what they all call me—Crazy Laura. But I ain't hear me—I ain't! I know—they're immortal. Just like the others, they're immortal. I can't hold on when they've got the spirit that takes 'em out—"

"I've tried, ain't I—and I've only got one!"

"One?" Squint's voice became suddenly excited. "One—what one?"

"I know. That's what they all call me—Crazy Laura. But I ain't hear me—I ain't! I know—they're immortal. Just like the others, they're immortal. I can't hold on when they've got the spirit that takes 'em out—"

"No door's shut."

"It is—don't you think I can see? This door leading into the front room!"

The sound of heavy shoes followed by a lighter tread. Then a scream above which could be heard the jangling of a rusty lock and the bumping of a shoulder against wood. High and strident came Crazy Laura's voice.

"Stay out of there—I tell you. Ready! Stay out of there! It's something that mortals shouldn't see—it's something that stays out—"

"I won't—unlock this door!"

"I can't do it—the time hasn't come yet—I mustn't!"

"You won't—well, there's another way. A way that's sudden, stumbling, of a man, then the screeching of a match and an exclamation of: 'So this is your immortal, eh?'"

Only a moaning answered, moaning intermingled with some vague form of a word chant, the words of which Fairchild in the dusty, dark hall below could not distinguish. At last came Squint's voice again, this time in sections:

"Laura—Laura. Honey."

"You Squint."

"Why didn't you tell your sweet heart about this?"

"I mustn't—you've spoiled it now, Ready."

"—Honey. I can show you the way. He's nearly gone. What were you going to do when he went?"

"He'd have dissolved in air, Ready. I know. The spirit he told me."

"Perhaps so." The voice of the scar-faced, mean-visaged Squint Rodaine was still honeyed, still cajoling. "Perhaps so—not at once. Isn't there a 'berry' of time in the basement?"

"Yes."

"Come downstairs with me."

"They started downward then, and Fairchild watched them pass. Rodaine in the lead, carrying a smoking lamp with its half-burned chimney carefully on the back of his head. Laura, mumbling her toothless gums, her hag-like hands extended before her, shuffling along in the rear. He heard them go far to the rear of the house, then descend the stairs and hear him went flat to his stomach on the floor, with his ear against a tiny crack that he might hear the better. Squint still was talking in his loving tones.

"You 'fraid?"

"I've broken the spell by going in upstairs. You should have told me. I didn't know—I just thought—well, I thought there was some one in there you liked, and I got jealous."

"Did you, Ready?" she asked. "Did you?"

Dinner Stories

A. J. Balfour often plays golf on the ancient links at St. Andrews in Scotland. One day, says Angus Kirkaldy in "Fifty Years of Golf," a man who had just made a drive asked his caddy whether he had ever carried clubs for any famous man.

"Lots a them," replied the caddy, and after naming a few more or less distinguished persons, mentioned Mr. Balfour and said that he had a close acquaintanceship with him.

"Just what do you mean by a close acquaintanceship?" asked the golfer.

"This," replied the caddy, pointing to his legs. "I'm wearin' a pair of Mr. Balfour's trousers." Youth's Companion.

HEALTHY HAIR

Several years ago I met a woman whose hair had shortened from far below the waistline to the shoulders. During the ten years it had taken to do this, the hair had become extremely fine and brittle, while the quantity had lessened until the scalp would have shown through the hair had it not been for the fact that her hair was naturally curly and fluffed out over her head. As she was a woman of fine health, lived outdoors a great deal of her time and had never had dandruff nor any other scalp troubles, she felt that her lost hair was natural and the deterioration was one of the inevitable processes that went along with passing years. She deplored the loss but accepted it, until the day she confided to me that she would soon have to resort to transformation and switches.

An examination showed that all of her hair had split ends. Some of these splits had extended many inches up the hair shafts. At every combing the hair broke off in pieces like dried grass. She had never trimmed off any of these broken ends, and had never realized that continual sunning and airing the hair had dried it out. As she had a skin which was inclined to be itchy, there had never been sufficient secreting to allow for this drying process.

This woman's hair improved from the day the ends were clipped. It has grown to below the waistline, and new growths are succeeding each other all the time, each stronger and healthier than the old hair; yet there had been no other restorative measures used than clipping the ends every six weeks and a daily vigorous massaging of the scalp.

This woman's case is a typical one of deterioration from neglecting to clip the ends of the hair, which are inclined to split. The traditional slipping at the time of the increasing moon had its virtue because a regular time was set to attend to this detail which is not so small as it seems to be to some people. At the end of the summer after coming months. If the hair has become dried out also, use for a time a tonic in which there is some oil; or do as this woman did—massage the scalp every day to increase the circulation in it, as this will build up any scalp to normally good health.

Brush the hair and clip the ends.

the upper part of the chafing dish one and a half cups of grated cheese, two tablespoons of sifted flour, half a tablespoon salt, a quarter of a teaspoon of paprika, a pinch of dry mustard and two cups of scalded milk. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly to a thick creamy mass, and stir in half a cup of cooked, unseasoned rice, one beaten egg and a teaspoon of Worcestershire sauce. Simmer until the rice is hot and serve on toast slices.

Form Custard—Scald one pint of milk, add one scant teaspoon of salt and pour on three beaten eggs. Mix well and stir in one cup each of drained canned corn and small lima beans, one tablespoon of oil and a quarter of a teaspoon of paprika. Turn into a greased glass baking dish, set in a pan of hot water and cook in a moderate oven like custard until set in center. Serve in the baking dish.

Baked Bananas—For the baked bananas with orange juice peel the fruit and cut in halves lengthwise. Lay in a buttered pan and for four bananas add the juice from two oranges mixed with a tablespoon of sugar and two tablespoons of hot water. Bake until the fruit is tender, basting with the syrup, and serve with the syrup poured over them.

Gets Pleasant Surprise

"About 6 months ago my father was very sick with his stomach, which had been troubling him for several years. Three doctors said he had cancer and one said it was gall stones—all agreed an operation was necessary, but on account of his age I was afraid to risk it. I told a friend about it who said his wife had been through the same trouble and had been cured by taking May's Wonderful Remedy. I at once bought a bottle for father and he is now as strong as a bear and can eat more ham and cabbage than any man." It removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract, and delays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded at People's Drug Co. and druggists everywhere. —Advertisement.

WESTERN AVENUE WOMAN GRATEFUL

"To Say I Praise Trutona Doesn't Half Express My Sentiments," She Says.

"To say I praise this medicine Trutona doesn't half express my sentiments," declares Mrs. Sarah Freer, 310 Western Avenue, Janesville, Continuing she said:

"For several months I'd been feeling as tired and worn out I could hardly get around and I suffered considerably from rheumatic pains in my hips and limbs. I hadn't enjoyed a good night's sleep for months. My daughter-in-law had derived such remarkable benefits from Trutona that I decided to try it myself. Today I feel like an entirely new woman. That former annoying tired feeling has all left me and the rheumatic pains in my hips and limbs are not nearly as severe. For some time I've been sleeping soundly every night. And I'm never bothered with constipation any more. I can certainly recommend Trutona to anyone who suffers as I did, as a wonderful medicine."

Hundreds of Janesville residents have, like Mrs. Freer, frankly declared Trutona to be a wonderful stomach, liver, kidney, bowel and blood remedy. YOU'LL be convinced, too, if YOU try Trutona! Sold and recommended in Janesville at the PEOPLE'S Drug Store; Edgerly, Atwell, Dallman; Milton, Stewart's, and all good druggists in surrounding towns.—Advertisement.

Chicago Review.
Chicago—Wheat and a little advance in price Wednesday during the early dealings, an unexpected upturn of values at Liverpool giving rise to confidence in buyers here. It was current that the rise in Liverpool had as a basis the fact that British buyers had been buying heavily and that the peace outlook was regarded as worse. On the other hand profit taking in the futures market had led to something of a setback. The opening, which varied from 14 1/2¢ to 15 1/2¢, was followed by a reaction which carried the market a trifle below the initial level.

Renewal of war talk brought about a decided upward swing in prices for all grain, wheat and corn. The market was followed by an increase in purchasing orders. The market closed 1/2¢ higher, with wheat at 100 1/2¢ and corn at 58 1/2¢.

Provisions were easier in the absence of any special demand.

PREPARE TO FIGHT PROTEST ON POOL

Confidence Expressed Sapirio Service Charge Will Stand.

Directors and committee men interested in the organization of the Chicago Milk Marketing company held a conference in Madison and Chicago this week and will be ready when the hearing is held Oct. 2, by the Wisconsin Department of Markets relating to the enforcement of the service charge provision of the milk contract. They express confidence that they will obtain a decision whereby the milk pool can enforce the service charge contract in Wisconsin.

An effort is underway to correct the technical error to give the Wisconsin pool members a legal status in this state and a few changes will be necessary to meet the requirements of the Wisconsin statutes.

To Probe Protest.

Arson Sapirio, adviser to the pool, is expected to appear for the marketing company, since the hearing will be a test case.

Milk producers are confident that the effort to defeat the pool is not alone centered in Detroit. They openly claim that independent operators in Walworth county are equally interested in seeing the pool service charge system defeated, since their district for the first time has been organized.

Expressions were made by members of the committee of nine to the effect, "There is little question but what the service charge is legal, but we want it settled at once."

Continue Organizing.

Meantime the inner belt of the Chicago dairy district is being organized and arrangements being completed for the election of the new operations committee. Rock county is practically sure of having two men on this committee for only 100 more signatures are needed to secure this representation.

The voting system will be changed whereby every member has a direct vote by postal ballots and not by proxy.

The hearing will be held October 2 in Madison and in the mean time the marketing company has wired attorney Sapirio of the issue and committee members are confident he will appear at the "friendly hearing."

Communications from the directors will be fully prepared to meet the situation.

SHOW SHORTHORNS AT INTERNATIONAL

Harvey Little and Robert Traynor to Select Co. Show Herd.

Harvey Little, president of the Rock County Shorthorn association, and Robert Traynor, Rock County, were named during a meeting of the Shorthorn breeders on Monday evening to aid in selecting the county show herd of milking Shorthorns which will be sent to the International Livestock exposition in Chicago Dec. 2 to 6.

About 25 animals are to be selected from the various herds of Rock county to fill the classes at the Chicago exposition—the classic of the world for fat stock and dual purpose cattle. Rock will be the first county that has ever sent a representative herd from any single county to this exposition. Little and Traynor were selected because of their experience as show ring judges and knowledge of the herds here.

The showing made by the Rock county milking Shorthorn herd at the fair gives the breeders confidence that they can make a creditable winning at the fat stock show. It is planned to fill every class with entries from Rock county, selecting the best animals from all the herds with particular attention to arranging the entries to be eligible for the herd contests.

200 Expected at Teachers' Party

Teachers in the public schools here will be accorded a formal welcome at the high school, Wednesday night, when the usual custom of having a reception will be followed. The school board and teachers returning will be hosts, while besides teachers of the grade and high schools, the teaching staff of the Wisconsin state school for the blind, and the staff of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. will be guests.

The program will be opened in the gymnasium at 8 o'clock with a welcome address by Mayor T. E. Walsh. President Jesse Kalle of the school board will then present the different members of the board and Supt. F. O. Holt will make a few remarks.

Music in the form of a violin solo by Leon Battis and a vocal solo by Emerson Cole will be followed by informal games, a "Mystery Lady" number, and the serving of refreshments.

WHAT ARE YOU DOING TO HELP SUPPORT JANESVILLE'S PAYROLL?

Suppose one industry employing only 100 men should go out of business or move to another city because the people where it was trying to do business would not support it. Do you realize what that would mean in lost business to any community?

If every employee of that institution drew $100 per month, the aggregate loss would be $3000 per month or $36,000 per year lost in wages. The banks, grocers, barbers, jewelry stores, jobbers, furniture houses, clothing houses, department stores, manufacturers, and business houses in general feel the pinch. And so does every man and woman working for wages or for a salary.

There is no denying the fact that everyone in a city depends upon the business of that city. And in turn the business of any city depends upon the individual buyers of that city for the consumption of goods. This should be remembered in connection with every article manufactured and sold in JANESVILLE, for every man out from the local payroll because of lack of local support for home industries inevitably brings its reaction to one and all.

SCRIMMAGE STARTS AT LOCAL SCHOOL; PICK ELEVEN SOON

Janesville high school's first football game of the season will be with Harvard, Sept. 30. The balance of the schedule is expected to be completed before the week is over.

Harvard has been after the Blues for several years. In the past, the schedule of the Power city institution has been such that it has been impossible to take on the Prairie state team.

Scrimmage has been started among the candidates of the local school. Coaches Klotz and Warfield have 30 men out for daily practice, almost enough for three squads.

Rain and wet grounds have not had the slightest interference on practice sessions, which have been transferred from the fourth ward to the fair grounds. The inclement weather conditions will give the local candidates in handling a slippery and muddy oval and on how to hold their feet on slimy ground.

Captain Warfield is beginning to line up the boys. In a few days, he expects to be able to announce tentative lineups.

Between now and the opening battle, the work will become more arduous and strenuous for the local candidates. Backward work has been started. Some of the inside dope has been fed to the players. Signal work has commenced.

Busy Man's Sport Page

BY FRANK SINCLAIR

BELOIT will not stake professional football games this year. While lack of material is given as part of the reason, the truth is that not enough fans have attended games to make the sport a financial success. With Green Bay, Racine and Milwaukee entering eleven in the national professional football league, those who have claimed professional football cannot be made a paying proposition, will watch the circuit carefully.

BASEBALL pools throughout the country are costing the public millions of dollars. There is hardly a citizen in the United States who has them, and though the law classes them as gambling, nothing is done. The police are waiting for "complaints" to be made.

PANCHO VILLA, the sensational flyweight of the Orient, will have the time of his life when he meets Jimmy Wilde of England for the world's title at a date to be settled upon later. While the Philippine is a wonder, Wilde is more so. The fight will be one of the greatest in years, and Wilde should win.

ONE of the best series of baseball games in seasons is to take place between the Beloit Braves, the Kansas City Athletics and the Racine Braves in October for the championship of southern Wisconsin. All three cities claim to have the edge, with the Braves seeming to be the best team. The height of interest will center around the games between the Badmashers and Racine.

FRIDAY'S harness races at Lexington will not doubt be the most successful in the last 50 years. More than $30,000 will be distributed among the winners. The finest field of trotters and pacers will step out in trials against time. If the track is in any way good shape and the weather near right, records are bound to be broken.

Ty Cobb makes 200th hit of season.

A. A. U. to hold annual election at Chicago Saturday.

Molla Mallory to face Miss Mary Brown in east-west title meet Friday.

Football Thuds — Assistant Coach Carpenter arrives at Washington and training speeds up with increased scrimmaging. The forward pass is being centered upon at Chicago. Coach Spaulding is having difficulty picking a quarterback at Illinois. — Supplies are looking for tackles at Illinois while scrimmage is in progress. — Jackie Johnson injured at Iowa where light scrimmage is in progress. — Northwestern's hopes cheered with victory. — Volunteers will join squad, while fundamentals still are being worked. — Attention at Ohio state is being paid to the line. — Skull work is on at Notre Dame with the first scrimmage scheduled for next Saturday. — Princeton's squad is being driven at top speed. — Lake Forest academy down to real work.

Tilden will meet Johnston in east-west tennis match next Saturday.

Williams hits homer 39 while Ruth cracks out his 34th.

Scraps About Scraps. — Charley White trains at Saratoga Lake, N. Y., for bout with Leonard, Oct. 3. — Ernie Rice, British lightweight champion, outpointed by Seaman Hall (28). — Ohio will probe Malone-Downey bout. — Mike O'Dowd-David Rosenberg fight postponed indefinitely.

Nat Day, with Peter Darr and Peter the Brewer, wins stakes totaling $11,000 at grand circuit Columbus meet.

Beloit "YW" Net Players Appear Here Wednesday

Beloit Y. W. C. A. tennis players were to invade Janesville Wednesday at 4:15 p. m. to meet the local players in a return inter-city match. On the previous occasion, the locals swept the Racine Braves in October for the championship of southern Wisconsin. All three cities claim to have the edge, with the Braves seeming to be the best team. The height of interest will center around the games between the Badmashers and Racine.

Two singles and a double match are to be played. The Misses Lillian Cornell and Jessie Allen, Janesville, are to meet Miss Eva Burton and Mrs. Roscoe Allen, Racine, in the singles. The same Janesville girls play the Misses Martha Thompson and Emma Furman in the doubles.

Play in the local women's net meet has been delayed because of adverse weather.

$100 Bonds

Don't say "I can't bother with a $100 bond; I will wait until I get $500 or $1000." Many people who wait to save the larger amounts yield to some temptation to spend before they get it all; consequently they never get ahead.

Put your money into sound $100 bonds as fast as you get it; trade them for larger bonds later. We have plenty of high grade $100 bonds yielding 5% to 6%—some even more. They are exactly the same as the big bonds except in denomination. Come in and talk it over.

WALK, RIDE OR FLY ANYWAY TO GET TO JANESVILLE FRIDAY and SATURDAY

For two days this week, Friday and Saturday, all Janesville will bury DULL CARE. We will celebrate a bounteous harvest with a Harvest Festival that will be the talk of Southern Wisconsin for years. We want YOU to come, either or both days, to help us have a good time—the more the merrier. Janesville passed the hat and found $5,000.00 in it. We are spending every cent to give our friends a good time for two days. Each day there will be two parades worth coming miles to see. In the afternoon each will have 100 floats. Six bands will furnish music—Edgerton, Brodhead, Luther Valley, Elkhorn, Rockford Kilties and Bower City. Four theatres—Apollo, Beverly, Majestic and Myers—will run from 11 A. M. to 11 P. M. each day. A good Ball Game and a score of Athletic Events at the Fair Grounds will keep us busy each afternoon. This is ALL FREE. Not a cent charged for any amusement. From 11 to 11 each day we will have one thing right after another. The detailed program is too long to print here—but we will have 20,000 programs ready Friday morning.

This is an unusual event. We never heard of one like it before. But we are sincere. We will have two days of the best entertainment that fifty men have been able to devise. It's ALL FREE. There are no strings on anything. Come yourself, bring the family, tell your friends. Knock off work for at least one afternoon and evening to enjoy yourself with us.

"LEAVE YOUR POCKETBOOKS AT HOME"

Rev. O. J. Kvale, Once Preacher in Janesville, Candidate for Congress.

Prohibition Not Issue.
Prohibition is not an issue in the contest involving Volstead for the eighth congressional district, as charged by the Rev. O. J. Kvale of Benson, who declares himself "as dry as Volstead with a little to spare." Mr. Volstead has the endorsement of the republican district convention, while both the democrats and the farmer-labor party endorse Kvale as their candidate for the eighth congressional district. In 1920, as the candidate of the Non-partisan League seeking the republican nomination, Rev. Kvale missed out Mr. Volstead in the June primary by 17,362 votes to 13,653. Then charges of violation of the state prohibition law were made against Rev. Kvale were sustained, the nomination was declared vacant, and the republican district committee selected Mr. Volstead as the republican candidate.

Kvale's endorsement. With the approach of the fall election, the voters of the Kvaløya faction circulated petitions that enabled him to file as an Independent, and in a three-cornered race—a Democratic candidate having entered—Volstead polled 36,323 votes; Kvale 35,570, and the Democratic candidate, 5,558.

This year, with Kvale bearing the democratic endorsement it will be a finish fight between Kvale and Volstead and the question will be what, standing for the "Nonpartisan—now Farmer-labor—organization has been able to retain.

Two years ago, women were exceptionally active in the interests of Mr. Volstead, and it was admitted that their vote figured in determining his success.

If the Kvalø forces have been able to hold their strength, the issue probably will rest with those voters who cast a democratic ballot two years ago. With the democratic convention endorsement, Kvalø forces expect to carry the greater part of this democratic vote.

FOOTVILLE

Footville—The third of a series of entertainments given for Miss Mary Butts took place Thursday night, when the O. M. C. of which Miss Butts has been a member, gave a social, in the home of Miss Brzko, every member being present. It was a complete surprise. Miss Butts is soon to become the bride of Elmer Jensen. During the supper was served.—Mr. and Mrs. Harper and son, Ray, Chicago, were visiting Mrs. Purnell. Mrs. Hanper who is a sister of Mrs. Purnell, and her son, Ray, were with them. Floyd Selek, D. and Mrs. F. R. Lowry and son Frank, spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Smith, Bollett. Elmer Jensen, Burlington Friday to visit the latter's sister, Mrs. Clinton Cator.

Mrs. Casser accompanied them home and will visit a few weeks here. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fraser, Elsie Libby and Miss Mildred Cain, Evansville, visited Mrs. H. Hepper and family Saturday. Sunday, the children of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Smith, of Norfolk, N. C., attended the Christian church Sunday, and were guests for dinner at the Harry Walton home. Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Watkins and baby, Dayton, and Arthur Buck and family, Beloit, and Mr. and Mrs. Otto Stouffacher and family, Orfordville, Mr. Gemplar and family, Monroe, were guests at the Adolph Gemplar home Sunday. Clifford Harper is spending some days out of town, and is arranging for the purchase of a new car. He is taking a course in dentistry. Miss Mabel Jackson, Blanchardville, who assisted at the bank the past month, returned to her home Saturday. Mrs. Billie Day and children, Janesville, spent the weekend with her mother, Mrs. Frank Proctor, and her pastor of the M. E. church and family arrived here Saturday and are occupying the parsonage. Mrs. Frank Walters is residing with Mrs. Theresa Palmer, Mrs. Pauline Baker and Mrs. Helen Thomas. Mrs. Thomas is ill. Events for the week follow: Tuesday night, Royal Neighbor's supper; Wednesday afternoon, woman's missionary meeting at the home of Mrs. P. S. Dean; Wednesday night, midweek prayer meeting; Thursday afternoon, the local division, King's Daughters, will meet with Mrs. Ella Lacey, and Friday afternoon the east division will meet with Mrs. Arthur Gouch. All are welcome to these meetings. Sunday will be rally day at the Christian church. A special program is being prepared, and a special sermon for the children will be delivered during the Sunday school hour, after which a picnic dinner will be served in the basement. This is not done to raise money, but simply for a get-together meeting. Promotion day exercises will take place at the church the following evening, for which a good program is being prepared under the leadership of Mrs. A. E. Jones, superintendent of the primary department. Mrs. and Mrs. F. W. Wells returned Saturday from a few days' outing at the "Clower" cottage, Kogonah. Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Wells are now at the lake. Miss Emma Phillips and Mrs. Frank Bingham went to the latter's home in Evansville Friday night.
